DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

> The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. It is unclear as to why the listed teas are in quotations.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

> A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –
> (b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.
> (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claim 1,2 and 5-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by JP 2000-159670 abstract.

3. JP 2000-159670 teaches of a beverage containing an O-methylated catechin extracted from tea leaves. The catechin containing beverage of the disclosure encompasses that of the instant claims and therefore should be capable of the same functions and have the same properties, such as improving liver function, etc.

It is respectfully pointed out that instant claim 2 is a product-by-process limitation. Even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed Cir. 1985). See MPEP 2113.

4. Claims 1,2,4,5 and 7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Iwasaki et al. (US 7,014,876B2).

5. Iwasaki et al. (US 7,014,876B2) teaches of a healthy drink containing catechin extracted from C. sinensis tea, such as Oolong tea (column 1, lines 66+; column 2, lines 37-46). Catechins are inherently contained in the Oolong tea of C. sinensis and should be capable of the same functions and have the same properties, such as a liver-function improving drug.

It is respectfully pointed out that instant claim 2 is a product-by-process limitation. Even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed Cir. 1985). See MPEP 2113.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

6. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

> (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

7. Claims 1-7 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over JP 2000-060427A abstract in view of Iwasaki et al. (US 7,014,876B2) and JP 2001-253879 abstract.

8. JP 2000-060427A discloses a black tea health drink containing catechin for improving the function of the liver (title) but does not explicitly disclose the tea to be that of the instant clams or that the catechin is an O-methylated catechin.

9. Iwasaki et al. (US 7,014,876B2) discloses a healthy drink containing catechin extracted from tea, such as Oolong tea (column 1, lines 66+; column 2, lines 37-46).

10. JP 2001-253879 discloses O-methylated catechins from tea where R1-R7 is 1-10C alkyl residue.

It is respectfully pointed out that instant claim 2 is a product-by-process limitation. Even though product-by-process claims are limited by and defined by the process, determination of patentability is based on the product itself. The patentability of a product does not depend on its method of production. If the product in the product-by-process claim is the same as or obvious from a product of the prior art, the claim is unpatentable even though the prior product was made by a different process. In re Thorpe, 777 F.2d 695, 698, 227 USPQ 964, 966 (Fed Cir. 1985). See MPEP 2113.

At the time of the invention it would have been obvious to one ordinarily skilled in the art to utilize a drink containing catechin to improve liver function. The catechins that may be extracted from tea, such as Oolong may include O-methylated catechins. Furthermore, it is obvious to vary and/or optimize the amount of (compound) provided in the composition, according to the guidance provided by (reference), to provide a composition having the desired properties such as the desired (ratios, concentrations, percentages, etc.). It is noted that "[W]here the general conditions of a claim are disclosed in the prior art, it is not inventive to discover the optimum or workable ranges by routine experimentation." In re Aller, 220 F.2d 454, 456, 105 USPQ 233, 235 (CCPA 1955).
